

Your Goop to Go

SOME OF YOUR FAVORITE GROOMING BRANDS ARE NOW IN THE CBS NEWS TRAVEL EDITOR, SHOWS HOW TO GO IN STYLE—AND

Ask the TSA

The rules may be familiar, but they're still confusing. We grill TSA spokesman Kawika Riley for answers.

TSA signs say 3 ounces is the limit for liquids, but I hear 3.4. Which is it?

"Our 3-1-1 campaign [containers 3 ounces or smaller, in 1 quart-size clear plastic bag, and 1 bag per traveler] is easy to remember. But our European and multinational counterparts don't use ounces, so we settled on 100 milliliters—which is 3.4 fluid ounces."

If my toothpaste tube is too big, can I just squeeze gel into a baggie and travel with that?

"Both gels and liquids need to be in a container at or below the 3.4-ounce limit. So if something strays from that, it will probably be stopped."

But at some airports, they're more lax about checking. Why?

"Screeners use their discretion based on the intelligence they receive on an ongoing basis. It's up to them to assess whether any item may be prohibited."

Moisturize before boarding

Cabin air can seriously dry your skin and lips. The fix: 1 Air Repair Rescue Balm ($10), which soothes lips and craggy cuticles. If you're prone to eye wrinkles, 2 Anthony for Men Eye Cream ($28) keeps lines where they belong—at the security gate.

Pack twofers

That hair-washing experiment with bar soap didn't succeed when you were a kid, because you weren't using the right soap. A squirt of 3 Jack Black All-Over Wash ($9) can tackle your skin and hair, and saves you carry-on space.

Bring your own

Sure, free amenities are available, but they're not always what you need. (And who likes the taste of airplane soap?) 4 Billy Jealousy Cool Medium Hair Gel ($16) keeps your hair in place. 5 Pit Boss Antiperspirant & Deodorant ($16) keeps you smelling fresh. 6 Grooming products featured are available at 3fioz.com.

Men's Health

April 2011 menshealth.com

Strength & Calm

Expert Advice on Getting Fitter, Looking Leaner, Eating Better, Investing Smarter... and Crushing Any Opponent

The Men's Health Guy
UFC Welterweight Champion
GEORGES ST-PIERRE

Moisturize Before Boarding

Cabin air can seriously dry your skin and lips. The fix:

1 Air Repair Rescue Balm ($10), which soothes lips and craggy cuticles.

never include a whitening toothpaste. So grab some of the 1.75-ounce 7 Supersmile Original Mint Whitening Toothpaste ($13).

Also pictured: Jack Spade Dopp Kit ($125), The Art of Shaving Shaving Cream Pump ($15), Billy Jealousy Cool Medium Hair Gel ($16), Jack Black Pit Boss Antiperspirant & Deodorant ($16). Grooming products featured are available at 3fioz.com.